

VacVision Environmental, a Division of the Vortex Companies, Rebrands as Vortex Services

(Houston, TX — March 28, 2019) As part of its long-term acquisition and consolidation strategy, the Vortex Companies is rebranding its VacVision Environmental division to Vortex Services. VacVision, which was acquired by Vortex in 2017, provides trenchless infrastructure rehabilitation contracting services to the municipal and industrial marketplace. “This move helps minimize market confusion as we continue to expand our services division geographically,” states Mike Vellano, CEO of the Vortex Companies.

Primarily located in South Carolina and Florida, VacVision’s rebranding will take effect immediately. Customers will begin seeing the Vortex Services logo appear on everything from billing statements to vehicles on the job site. “Our name may have changed from VacVision to Vortex Services, however our commitment and dedication to satisfying our customers trenchless infrastructure inspection and rehabilitation needs remains the same,” said Wes Kingery EVP Services at Vortex.

The Vortex Services Division has expanded to include a broad range of trenchless service and contracting solutions, such as camera inspection and testing, CIPP lining, pipe bursting, large diameter geopolymer pipe relining, manhole rehabilitation and point repairs. Vortex Services is guided by a highly knowledgeable management team, experienced crews, industry-leading technology and an advanced engineering design approach to deliver premium installation results.
